The following listing of Nursing Care Facilities was prepared as a guide or information source for use by Lebanon County residents in their efforts to procure nursing home care, either for themselves or members of their families. In no way is it the intent of the Lebanon County Area Agency on Aging to recommend the services of one facility as opposed to any other. It is our recommendation that this publication be used as a comparative base, or starting point, from which individuals may derive pertinent information regarding which facility most adequately, meets their particular needs. The website http://www.medicare.gov/NHCompare can also be used to find information such as nursing care facility ratings for health inspections, nursing home staff and quality measures that are not found in this publication but could be important in making a decision on a nursing home. Also, http://www.health.pa.gov, click on Nursing Homes; this site will give you information regarding resident care surveys, building safety surveys as well as other useful information important in making your decision.

Lebanon County nursing care facilities have a capacity for 1,585 nursing residents. Of these nursing beds, the State Medical Assistance Program assumes payment of nursing care for 690 patients occupying these beds. Of the 690 Medical Assistance residents, 265 are residents of Cedar Haven. There are 425 medical assistance residents who reside in private nursing homes throughout the county. Additionally, there are approximately 1,063 Personal Care, Assisted Living Residence or other types of alternative living units available in Lebanon County nursing facilities. These statistics were compiled from nursing care facilities located in Lebanon County only.

The majority of nursing care facilities listed are located in Lebanon County; however, others in the surrounding area have been included in the listing because of high incidence of use by county residents.

DEFINITIONS OF CARE
NURSING CARE FACILITY

Skilled Nursing Facility

Skilled nursing facility is defined as an institution (or a distinct part of an institution) which is primarily engaged in providing skilled nursing care and related services for residents who require medical or nursing care, or rehabilitation services for the rehabilitation of injured, disabled or sick persons, and is not primarily for the care and treatment of mental diseases; has in effect a transfer agreement (meeting the requirement with one or more hospitals having agreements) and meets the requirements for a SNF.

Skilled care services must be: prescribed by a physician, provided directly by or requiring the supervision of skilled nursing personnel (e.g. RN, LPN) which the patient needs and receives on a daily basis, and can only be provided in a skilled nursing facility on an inpatient basis. Following, is a list of services in which one, or more may qualify as skilled care: injection of intravenous fluid, tube feedings, suctioning, catheter insertion, sterile dressing, extensive skin care, heat treatment, oxygen or inhalation therapy and rehabilitative nursing procedures.

Nursing Facility

Nursing facility is defined as an institution (or a distinct part of an institution) which is primarily engaged in providing skilled nursing care and related services for residents who require medical or nursing care, rehabilitation services for the rehabilitation of injured, disabled, or sick persons, or on a regular basis, health-related care and services to individuals who because of their mental or physical condition require care services (above the level of room and board) which can be made available to them only through institutional facilities, and is not primarily for the care and treatment of mental diseases; has in effect a transfer agreement with one or more hospitals having agreements in effect; and meets the requirements for a NF.

If a provider does not meet one of these definitions, it cannot be certified for participation in the Medicare and/or Medicaid programs.

Personal Care Home

Personal Care is a term meaning the supervisory care received by guests who need a protective facility mostly as an overseer for financial affairs, supervision of medication, diet, and other personal needs which they are beginning to have problems handling independently. Personal Care residents may have assistance with their personal care, and some of the exhausting tasks of independent living (i.e. laundry, cleaning, meal preparation, scheduling of appointments, etc.) which are performed by trained facility staff. The Personal Care resident is under the care of the staff physician, or his own physician in the community. The home provides food, shelter, and supervision for four or more adults. Residents do not require the level of care offered in a hospital or nursing home, Personal Care is the right choice when, for reasons of comfort, safety and peace of mind, a senior and his/her relatives realize that professional assistance in a residential setting is appropriate.
Assisted Living Residence

Assisted Living Residence licensure is more stringent than Personal Care regulations and the facility can use the title “Assisted Living Residence” only if they have been approved for licensure.

Residential Care/Independent Living

Independent living is being marketed as one part of a continuing care community at many modern facilities. Seniors generally buy or rent a small house or apartment on the grounds of a long-term care community. There may be an option to purchase meals at the cafeteria of the nursing center, but basically residents are independent for personal care, medication management, and shopping and preparing meals. Often they maintain a vehicle, or use facility transportation.

The advantage to this type of living is that the senior is linked to the continuum of services offered by the facility, and should their health deteriorate to the point where they need more assistance, they are moved to a higher level of care within the facility. Independent living in the long-term care system gives the resident and option of receiving whatever level of care they require as their health deteriorates.
